

Synergy Announces Replicator Add-On, Presentation Publisher, for Further Enhancing Microsoft Office SharePoint Server 2007
Presentation Publisher Supports Branding Replication to Remote SharePoint Servers

SEATTLE, WA — March 2, 2008 — Synergy, Inc., a provider of products that extend Microsoft SharePoint Products and Technologies, today announced at the Microsoft Office SharePoint Conference 2008 that it has released Presentation Publisher. An optional add-on to Synergy's flagship product, Replicator, Presentation Publisher enables visual presentation elements to be replicated to remote Microsoft Office SharePoint Servers to provide customers with the ability to replicate graphical and presentation elements to remote servers.

"Our customers have come to expect the high-quality innovative products we deliver to help them maximize their investment in SharePoint," said David Seaman, chief operating officer at Synergy. "By working with Microsoft, we feel confident that Presentation Publisher will provide users of Office SharePoint Server 2007 with an enriched user experience consistent across their global organization."

Key features of Presentation Publisher include:

- Integration into SharePoint user interface
- Replication of views, navigation elements, site settings, themes and web part layouts
- Immediate replication of layout changes
- Additional queuing options for pushing existing structure to remote servers
- Utilizes Synergy's Replicator infrastructure for network challenged environments for guaranteed delivery of packages

Views, themes, site settings, and the layout of web parts can be selected for replication to any remote server, supporting an organization's ability to maintain both branding consistency, as well as a familiar look and feel for end users.
